

A COLLECTION OF bytestories

A WEBSITE SERVING AS AN ARCHIVE OF MY DIFFERENT ADVENTURES ON PLANET EARTH...

BY YVONNE J. KACHEL

Contents

Story Title	Page
Swim anyone?	2

Swim anyone?

Night has fallen, the wild safari park gates are closed and I wait while my friends book us into our small cottage.

Its been a hot day so I rest my posterior on the rim of the large concrete pool thinking its a poor excuse for a swimming pool.

Zimbabwe and its culture, people and travel have been wondrous.

I sing, swing my legs and then I feel movement.

The air is suddenly cold and as I start to turn towards the water I see two pairs of eyes and the long snouts of maneaters who see me as dinner.

Never have I moved so fast and never have swear words darkened the air in such numbers.

As I race into the safety of the reception area I see the battered old wooden sign which states in English "Beware Crocodiles."

It is resting by the door.

My friends laugh. I don't. Next day we are witness to crocodiles sliding in and out of the huge lake and I shudder with revulsion.

My swimmers stay in the bag.

In Zimbabwe

Why is the website called bytestories.com?

This is a place for "byte-sized" stories and there is a 1500 character (about 250 words) limit for two main reasons. Firstly, we want you to know that "War and Peace" isn't required to leave your mark. Secondly, it takes about 2 minutes to read each story meaning you can head here whenever you want a quick (and entertaining) read.

If you would like to share a story or create your own eBook, simply head to bytestories.com, Register an account and click on the "Share a Story" button.